You know that too? You're surfing the internet and encounter a page with articles, that tell travel related inspirational stories so well, that you want to go there now! Immediately! In this article I want to track down these kind of pages and pass them on to you.

Don't worry Just travel's goal is to give you all the information to a certain travel destination, so you just need to print out the article and you're ready to go. But I think, that not each of my articles will blow you away because of its travel inspiration! That's why I present you such sites – that do the job in my opinion – here as an addition to my blog.

Migrationology

I seriously don't know anyone else who can create such an excitement around food! Mark lives for it, I don't doubt it a second! And his biggest paradise is Thailand with all his yummy Thai food! Also watch his food videos. It will make your mouth water or at least bring a smile to your face.

Legal Nomads

Jodi, a former lawyer – hence the blog’s name – started travelling in 2008 and, like many, couldn’t stop. So now she blogs about food and travel providing her readers inspirational stories along the way. I discovered her blog, when I was looking for information about Bagan and also carry a whistle in my regular travel luggage because of her advise.

Time travel turtle

I must admit, I like their logo and their report of swimming with turtles and many other travel reports they publish. They also take care in having titles making you curious like “The panoramic kaleidoscope” referring to a location in Chile, that I also wrote about.

That backpacker

Audrey Bergner brings her travel stories across in a warm and personal way, combined with useful tips. I liked the stories about Israel and learned, that, if I ever go there, it will be expensive.

A dangerous business

Secret agent Amanda is pursuing her dangerous business, but luckily for you, she does not keep all of it a secret! I find it most inspiring to delve into her US travel stories, but she covers many other destinations as well.

Wandering Earl

is another blogger, you just can't ignore. According to his website counter he is already on the road for more than 5000 days. He's probably also one of the few bloggers ever kidnapped according to his blog. And besides the inspiring stories he also offers travel tours lead by him.

Otts World

Many destinations have already been explored by Sherry. And she likes photography. So you will be inspired by the mix of photos and travel stories. And she has been to Mongolia. A destination I still want to explore despite the bad developments in Ulan Bataar, as she reports.

YTravel

have a really professional blog with great pictures. Under travel pinspiration they focus on mixing high quality pictures from Pinterest, I suppose, with inspirational quotes. And because they have travelled to many places you can be sure to find many good ideas here for your own travel plans.

Leave your daily hell

This blog has one of the best domain names I know! It really brings it to the point. Other than that he really brings his travel inspiration across with lots of pictures and travel advice.

Dave's travel corner

When I entered the site, the worn out shoes in the title caption caught my attention first. Good idea to bring the subject of travel across! There are a lot of inspiring stories on there plus you can see, how he got kissed by two sea lions.

One of my most inspiring articles is Vietnam Top 5.

Dear Sherry,

You're welcome.

And thanks. Yes, I have to see Mongolia. It fascinates. But no plans yet, when!

Dear Colin,

Seems like we have one more fan for the turtle site. Hope you don't forget my blog.
